

2009 Outstanding Directors Advisory Board

General Lester L. Lyles

Retired, U.S. Air Force

Director: DPL, General Dynamics, KBR, Precision Castparts

Independent consultant since 2003. Gen. Lyles served in the U.S. Air Force for more than 35 years as: Commander of the Space and Missile Systems Center from 1994 to 1996; Director of the Ballistic Missile Defense Organization from 1996 to 1999; Vice Chief of Staff of the Headquarters of the U.S. Air Force from 1999 to 2000; and Commander of the U.S. Air Force Materiel Command from 2000 to 2003. He is also a director of USAA, ANSER, and Battelle Memorial Institute. Lyles holds a BS in mechanical engineering from Howard University and an MS in mechanical/nuclear engineering from New Mexico State University under the auspices of the Air Force Institute of Technology.